ENT CENTER

When I think of preservation, I am reminded of college productions of Fiddler on the Roof with its theme of tradition. Even traditions evolve and change over time. A good example of this is the Dugout which first opened on February 4, 1937, in the basement of Canterbury Hall with access through a rear door. A year after the erection of Memorial Hall in 1948, a new Dugout was created on the ground floor where Ground Memorial Lounge is now situated. The new Dugout featured a full grill and ice cream parlor. With the completion of the Mann Student Center in 1965, the college snack bar moved again. There was an attempt to change the name to Crusader Corner, but soon the old designation was affirmed and the Dugout remains.

Chapel is another tradition which has both changed and moved over time., The original chapel was in Canterbury Hall with the men sitting on one side of a center aisle and the women on the other. When enrollment ballooned after World War II, the old gymnasium was transformed into the gymnorium and served as church and chapel from Sunday through prayer meeting on Wednesday evening and then was used as a gymnasium for the remainder of the week. What a transformation took place over Saturday night! When the basement sanctuary of the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene was completed in 1950, chapel moved there for the next thirty years. There students were seated by class with the seniors at the front and the freshmen at the rear. This tradition remains only Junior-Senior Day. The faculty occupied the choir loft.

Students and faculty have always been involved in ministry off campus, including the founding of Bethel, Weymouth and Duxbury Churches of the Nazarene. Student organizations under a number of labels have engaged in prison ministry, mission services, street ministry and as volunteers in a variety of charitable agencies. Student ministers and musical groups have conducted services on the weekends as well as served more regularly as church pianists, organists and youth leaders in a variety of denominations. On campus, students have sponsored prayer meetings, revivals and missionary conventions. They were among the first to participate in Youth in Mission and CAUSE trips. Over one hundred and fifty students regularly participate in some form of summer ministry and in a recent chapel one hundred students testified to having participated in some form of overseas missionary activity.

A sound mind in a sound body is part of the liberal arts tradition. During the college's first forty years in this community athletics was purely intramural. The Greek letter societies provided the framework for athletic competition. Can you imagine playing basketball on the ground floor of Canterbury Hall with an eight foot ceiling and iron posts? It was student initiative which produced the first wooded frame gym in the 1920's as well as the Lahue Physical Education Center in the 1970's. The original athletic field was situated between the men's and women's dormitories. Six-man football and baseball were played on that field. Bradley Field was not constructed until the 1960's. There were open tournaments for both tennis and ping-pong in which faculty and administration participated as well as students. Intercollegiate athletics came to the campus only in the 1960's. Weight training, flag football, and January 3-on-3 basketball still testify to the importance of non-varsity athletics.

Dean Bertha Munro established the academic tradition of ENC as a Christian liberal arts college. Her motto was "There is no conflict between the best in Christianity and the best in education." She insisted that the performance of this college should exceed its claims for itself. She led by example for half a century and her mantle is still evident in this community. The long-term service of faculty in each generation has resulted in the perpetuation of this commitment to Christ and excellence in higher education. The names of leaders of the first generation of teachers are memorialized on campus buildings: Angell, Cove, Gardner, Mann, Munro, Nease, Shields, Shrader Spangenberg and Williamson. The names of the second wave of teachers are found on rooms in Gardner Hall: Blaney, Babcock, Dygoski, Goodnow, Kauffman, Mann, Marple, Mullen, and Naylor. There remain today another group of faculty with a long term of service: Brandes, Cameron, Detwiler, Fiacco, Fish, Free, Giberson, Hall, Lanham, McLaren, Millican, Nyce, Watkins and Yerxa.

The dedication page is often reserved for a retiring professor or individual who made an impact in the ENC community. Sadly this year we did not have such an opportunity. Eastern Nazarene College had tragedy hit twice during the 2004/2005 school year. The year started with the death of Professor Steve Wolf, who ended his battle with cancer. The second semester started with the sudden death of our friend Jeremy Griffin, son of Professor Wayne Griffin. This book is in memory of the two and the contributions they made to lives of those here at ENC.

The Preservation
Stephen N. Wolf
Dedication

"For I am already on the point of being sacrificed; the time of my departure has come. I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept faith. Henceforth there is laid up for the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, will award to me on that Day, and not only to me but also to all who have loved his appearing." –Timothy II 4:6-8

A dear friend and colleague went to be with the Lord this past summer. Stephen N. Wolf endured a long battle with cancer for the last year and a half. His passage occurred on the morning of August 26, 2004. In reflecting on his life and his home going, many thoughts come to mind. Steve was passionate about a number of things, including his family, teaching, students, and sports.

Whenever anyone talked with Steve, it was evident that his family was the most important thing in his life. On numerous occasions over the last 6 years, Steve could be heard talking about how proud he was of his children and their various accomplishments. He rarely missed an athletic event of his children. Dinner time was a special family occasion. It was a time of reflecting on the day's events, but also an opportunity to teach family values and the importance of developing positive character traits. Family times were also occasions to laugh, plan for upcoming events, and make memories.

Another area of utmost importance to Steve was his teaching and his engagement with students at ENC. He spent countless hours developing his classroom instruction, while simultaneously challenging students to reach their full potential as educators. Students came away from his class having benefited from excellent instruction and a compulsion to incorporate his values in their respective classrooms. Steve always had an open door policy with students and an uncanny ability to make students feel comfortable in his presence. They gravitated to him, looking for confirmation or to gain a deeper understanding about an educational issue or advice regarding a personal dilemma. He could be observed spending many hours counseling students as they wrestled with personal and career decisions.

As one colleague in the Education Department reminisced: "Steve was a Renaissance Man. He appreciated good literature, he was a writer who dreamed of having his works published, and he was blessed with the gift of words. I will miss his eloquent prayers for us in education department meetings."

This past fall the ENC community suffered a great loss with the passing of Professor Steve Wolf. He was a great friend, mentor, and coach to students and faculty. Coach Wolf was the strongest and most motivating person I have ever met. Coach's passion for life and over whelming Christian spirit without a doubt was contagious. Players and students alike would testify that Coach Wolf was always willing to lend a hand, and give advice on and off of the field. When Coach was rediagnosed with cancer before the start of the 2003 season the team was devastated. Yet we knew that he was rooting for us and praying for us every step of the way. His education students felt the same way. While they were concerned with his health, they knew that Prof. Wolf was cheering them on academically. Speaking as a member of the ENC Softball team, and a student, I can state that this campus was both privileged and honored to have Steve Wolf as a coach, professor, and friend. The faculty, staff, and students desperately miss him and the softball team will always place him in their hearts.

Jeremy Griffin Dedication

-A Mother's Tribute-

I've loved Jeremy from the first moment I saw him. I don't know where nicknames come from.-I called him Bubbycakes right from the beginning. He was and is the love of my life. When he was about three I was told I would have to stop calling him that. I promised I would but occasionally I would slip. His friends would say "What did you just call him?" but I would never repeat it. He was always a great hugger and kisser. He hugged long and hard.

At Merry-Deb Nursery School, Jeremy was known for kissing all the little girls, and therefore acquired the nickname from the staff of Hot-lips Griffin from the staff. The children called him Germany and Germ. He had the nickname of "packo" for a while. When I questioned it, I was told it was after a book they had read. But that name never really caught on.

We experienced the empty nest syndrome early when he went off to high school — Middlesex School in Concord. We had officially given him permission to go to other students' houses on the weekends as long as the parents extended the invitation. We would often hear about visits when we attended football, basketball, or baseball games. On one occasion a mother came up to me and told me Jeremy had been a guest at her home the past weekend. She said Jeremy was a jewel. In the morning he had folded up all the blankets the kids had used. My mother and I looked at each other in amazement…Jeremy knows how to fold up a blanket, we both said? So we called him Jewel for a while.

It was his spirit that I loved. When he was young he had no interest in crawling. He was walking at seven months. When he went to Nursery School, I was the only one who had trouble with it. He ran to the kids and never looked back to say good-bye.

For the first years of his life my mother and I taught him that the world revolved around him. We did too great a job. We got reports from Middlesex of his bowing to imaginary crowds after giving what he thought was a profound answer.

Jeremy wanted to be cremated. And we are granting his wish. We are scattering part of his ashes at Nantasket Beach where he and I spent a lot of time when he was younger. We would often go after I had finished work, and have supper at the beach. We met some wonderful people there.

Just a word about his friends. He picked out wonderful human beings as his friends. I've enjoyed meeting them over the years and would have picked them myself to be my friends too. Maybe you are just a friend of Jeremy's and don't know us. Please make an effort to contact us. Wayne and Paula Griffin, 39 Planters Field Ln. Hingham, MA. 02043. (781)749-1478

Jeremy had an innate sense of justice. He was always pointing out the injustices in our society. He needed people and they needed him in return. We carefully chose John 10:10 "I have come that they may have life, and have it abundantly" as the theme for Jeremy's life. He certainly did live abundantly. He would squeeze the life out of every second. He left a legacy of loving people and loving life. It is an honor to have this yearbook dedicated to him. Thank you.

-Paula Griffin

The Collective Diverse SENIORS

Dear Senior Class,

At this time in our lives we often focus both on looking back and looking forward. We look back over the past four or so years spent at ENC and remember what it was like to be part of this community. We measure our time in terms of events, some shared as a class: our annual Homecoming t-shirt sales, Family Feud, class chapels, and Senior retreat, and some on a more individualized scale. As the memories of our college experiences fade into a dream, the changes they have made in us, and the lasting relationships formed, are what will remain. While we are looking back on the dream of our college experience, we are also looking forward with anticipation for what will come next. As I think about how to live each day, I see the wisdom provided in this poem: To live each day well, while keeping the past and future in perspective.

Many thanks to you all for forming the strong community I have felt over the past four years, and blessings for a hopeful, fulfilling future.

Life is a result of the choices you make. Once you stop making bad decisions, you won't have to live with guilt. Once you start to commit yourself to our Lord and Savior, the answers will start to come from above, rather that from our imperfect minds, and you'll find a joy greater than any human can create on his own.

Beginning college as a timid little freshman, I was unsure of what my future held. Life sprang me forward at a rapid pace changing many aspects of myself, as I plodded through classes. Circumstances and people have not always met my high expectations, yet some have exceeded them. Never in a million years did I imagine I would go to Italy, work off Broadway, or have the friends I've been blessed with. Looking to my future once again I realize some things never change. I am still not positive about anything lying ahead, yet I know now from past experiences that it will be more than I could ever ask or imagine as God finishes the work He has begun.

April Barker

It will be sad to leave ENC, but it had to happen eventually. After all, what good would an education be if we didn't go out in the world and use it? I have learned a lot and changed a lot since coming to ENC four years ago. I was not looking forward to sophomore year after most of my friends transferred the year before. But God is excellent and has continued to bless me with some awesome people to spend my time with and keep me entertained. I don't think that I have ever laughed so much or felt so good as when spending time with all of you.

Rhiannon Burch

Thank you, God, only You know how my ENC experiences will help me and where I'll be in the future. Thank you, Daddy, for always believing in me, even when I've disappointed myself. "Before certain thoughts one stands in bewilderment, especially at the sight of human sin, and one asks oneself: 'Should I take it by force, or by humble love?' Always determine: 'I shall take it by humble love.' If thus you determine once and for all, you will be able to subdue the whole world. Loving humility is a terrible force, the most powerful of all, the like of which there is none." -Dostoyevsky, The Brothers Karamazov

Wendy Miller

There have been good times and bad times, happy times and sad times, and times when I never thought I would ever finish school. I have had some great times with friends, such as getting stuck in the revolving doors in Boston. I have had some difficult times when I wondered if I could ever finish the semester. No matter where I go, there will be good times and bad times. Let the good times overrule the bad. Give life all you got, then give another 110%. Through everything that has happened to me, to the campus, and to the school, I wouldn't change a thing.

Adrian Mills

As much as I've enjoyed my time here at ENC, the thing I appreciate most is not the friendships I've made, the classes I've taken or the fun I've had. I have truly come to appreciate this place because it has prepared me for the rest of my life. While ENC has certainly ministered to me in many ways, I now feel prepared to spend my life ministering to others. I'd like to thank all my professors for their patience and guidance, friends for the memories and the fun, and Lauren Marie for loving a crazy kid like me. Most important, praise be to God for saving and for giving me a hope and a future.

Elaine Midolo

The past four years have been some of the most challenging times of my life, and at the same time, some of the best. God has taught me so much in and through this community. I have made friendships that will last a lifetime because they are routed and grounded in Christ's love. I would like to say thank you to all of my family and friends, especially Rachel. You all have supported me through times I couldn't have made it through on my own, and for that I thank you. Most of all, I would like to thank God for all He has done and continues to do in my life. I will miss ENC, but I am so excited to see what God has in store!

It's all small stuff. Have faith. Ask when you need help. Go out for fast food at 1 am. Use all three class skips. Never turn down a trip to Boston. You never know who you'll see when you visit the Boston Commons. See if you can find your way to Jillian's. Go to Bugaboo Creek, Strawberry Fair, and Sweet Lemons. Watch movies with your roommate. Eat raw cookie dough with your friends. Visit the catacombs late at night be sure to bring flashlights don't tell your mom you had to bring a baseball bat. Trust God. Laugh until your stomach hurts. Watch the news, but only once a week there is a world outside the college bubble. Have fun. Make something in the IRC with a friend. Don't just watch Passions, find one. Let God lead the way. See an ENC production. Take a chance. Get involved. Be real.

Greg Harjula

It is an honor to be chosen as a member of Who's Who at ENC. The last four years have flown by, and I could not have done it without the support of my friends and family, especially my parents, Gary, Kristen, and Amy. My experiences here have helped me mature and grow as an individual, and I will take all of these experiences and relationships I've formed with me wherever life leads me. "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." – Philippians 4:13

"But by the grace of God I am what I am"…1 Corinthians 15: 10. Throughout the past four years I have experienceed God's grace and love in so many ways. He has provided me with so many opportunities to grow and learn at ENC. Traveling on Summer Min. for two years provided me with so much ministry experience to teens. Both years I had wonderful teams and was able to learn a lot from them. My student teaching experience was also an incredible learning experience. God blessed me with a wonderful class and teacher to work with. I will miss all of the people at ENC, but I am ready to move on to wherever God leads me!

God's grace and warm embrace kept me at ENC for four years. I cannot say that it has been the easiest or greatest four years of my life so far, but there is a blessing in every lesson. I have learned to let the good words outweigh the bad—the ones that come from my mouth and come into my ears. As I begin my new journey, I'll leave you all with this phenomenal quote from Sister Assata Shakur: "Dreams and reality are opposites. Action synthesizes them." Keep on living, keep on giving, keep on loving…

Kelsey Towle

We caravanned to New Hampshire. We went snow tubing. We stayed up late telling ghost stories. These are some of the memories I have from celebrating my birthdays at my house with friends. My sophomore and junior years we got together on Martin Luther King Jr. Day, and this year we spent the night at my house. Looking back through my memories of each birthday, and checking out old group photos, I see my group of friends expanding and evolving. Some have been constant through my years at ENC but many are new, even from senior year. I was able to bring together two parts of my life by bringing people home to interact with my family, and seeing my family's warm welcome of my new friends.

Bethany C. Toye

I am truly blessed, that during four of the most formative years of my life, I was able to spend them with such supportive friends and inspiring professors. I am so grateful for the many things ENC has given me, but above all, knowledge and faith. Always remember- You don't know what the future holds, but you know who holds the future. Thank You.

Jessica Weatherbee

One of the vital lessons I learned here was taught by Dr. Shea. Each day he walked into class with the constant reminder that this is not all that life is composed of. Tests will be failed, classes will be dropped, and failure will happen, but it is what we choose to do with these failures and challenges that will matter. More importantly he stressed that it is the people who we meet along the way and incorporate into our lives that will matter the most. As I look back at my time at ENC I smile because of the precious memories formed through traveling through late nights in the dorm, through laughter and through tears. I would not be where I am if I did not have the constant support of Jennabeth Jackson and my family. If any lesson has been learned, it is that they matter the most.

The Classical Difference

FACULTY AND STAFF

The faculty and staff of Eastern Nazarene College make the difference. Their classical style forms the tradition and authority this school requires. What they do for the students is invaluable. Whether through their lectures, sermons, financial accounting, or cleaning, they constantly serve the students with wonderful spirit. The student body is blessed to have such a diverse selection of faculty and staff to help get them through this monumental part in their lives. The difference they make on those around them is sometimes unnoticed, yet it is never unseen by God. What makes the difference is their willingness to cater to the specific needs of the student body. Their sacrifice is wholly appreciated. The faculty and staff are the classical difference.

The Soul Impact

UNDERCLASS

The underclassmen of Eastern Nazarene College have made a strong impact on this campus. Each individual student affect's another, whether they know it or not. There is a great deal of servanthood among the student body, which is seen in everyday activities. These include sitting with someone at lunch who was sitting alone, holding a door for someone whose arms were full, cheering the crusaders on, the junior class raising money for the junior-senior, and the community service in which each individual class participates.

The underclassmen are a group of individuals who collaborately provide the school with new ideas, different cultures, a vast array of personalities, and various different denominations. However, as a whole, they are a group of students who have one faith. How students carry themselves influences those around them, which ultimately changes the atmosphere of the campus from year to year. This is a campus of continuous transition, which, in turn, makes it a campus much renewed.

The Juniors
CLASS OF 2006

Prior to our election in the spring of 2004, many said it could not be done. "An all male Junior Class Council? How in the world are they going to plan the Junior/Senior banquet?" These and I'm sure many other questions entered peoples minds upon our election. Yet, through a combination of hard work and good help, the Junior class Council of 2006 was able to accomplish all of its goals.

I would like to thank all those who helped us, especially those who helped serve in the many banquets and, of course, the women in the Junior/Senior committee. I would also like to encourage those in the class of 2006 to stay as actively involved as we make yet another major transition into our Senior year. Good luck and God bless you all.

The Sophomores

CLASS OF 2007

The 2004-2005 year began like no other for the Sophomore Class Council. Rather then running for election in October and trying to play catchup, the returning council members were able to start working before most of the students had even returned for registration.

The members of the Council, President Kevin Uscinski, Vice President Matt Coder, Social Life Rep Jeff Hamilton, Chaplain Pablo Galvez, and Administrative Assistant Stacy Myers had a great time helping with freshmen orientation. We next ran the first Open Mic Night of the year, and thanks to all of your help, we had a huge turnout! Our second event of the year was running the Red Cross Blood Drive in Spang. I was personally amazed that in only one day, over sixty ENC students signed up to donate their blood.

During second semester, the sophomore class council added Jen Westcott to the team as the class of 2007's Rec Life Assistant. We hope to finish out the year by running another Blood Drive to outdo the previous one, to increase fundraising for our Junior-Senior, and to run another awesome event! I pray that the class of 2007 stays strong as we enter our junior year of college and that God will use in mighty ways.

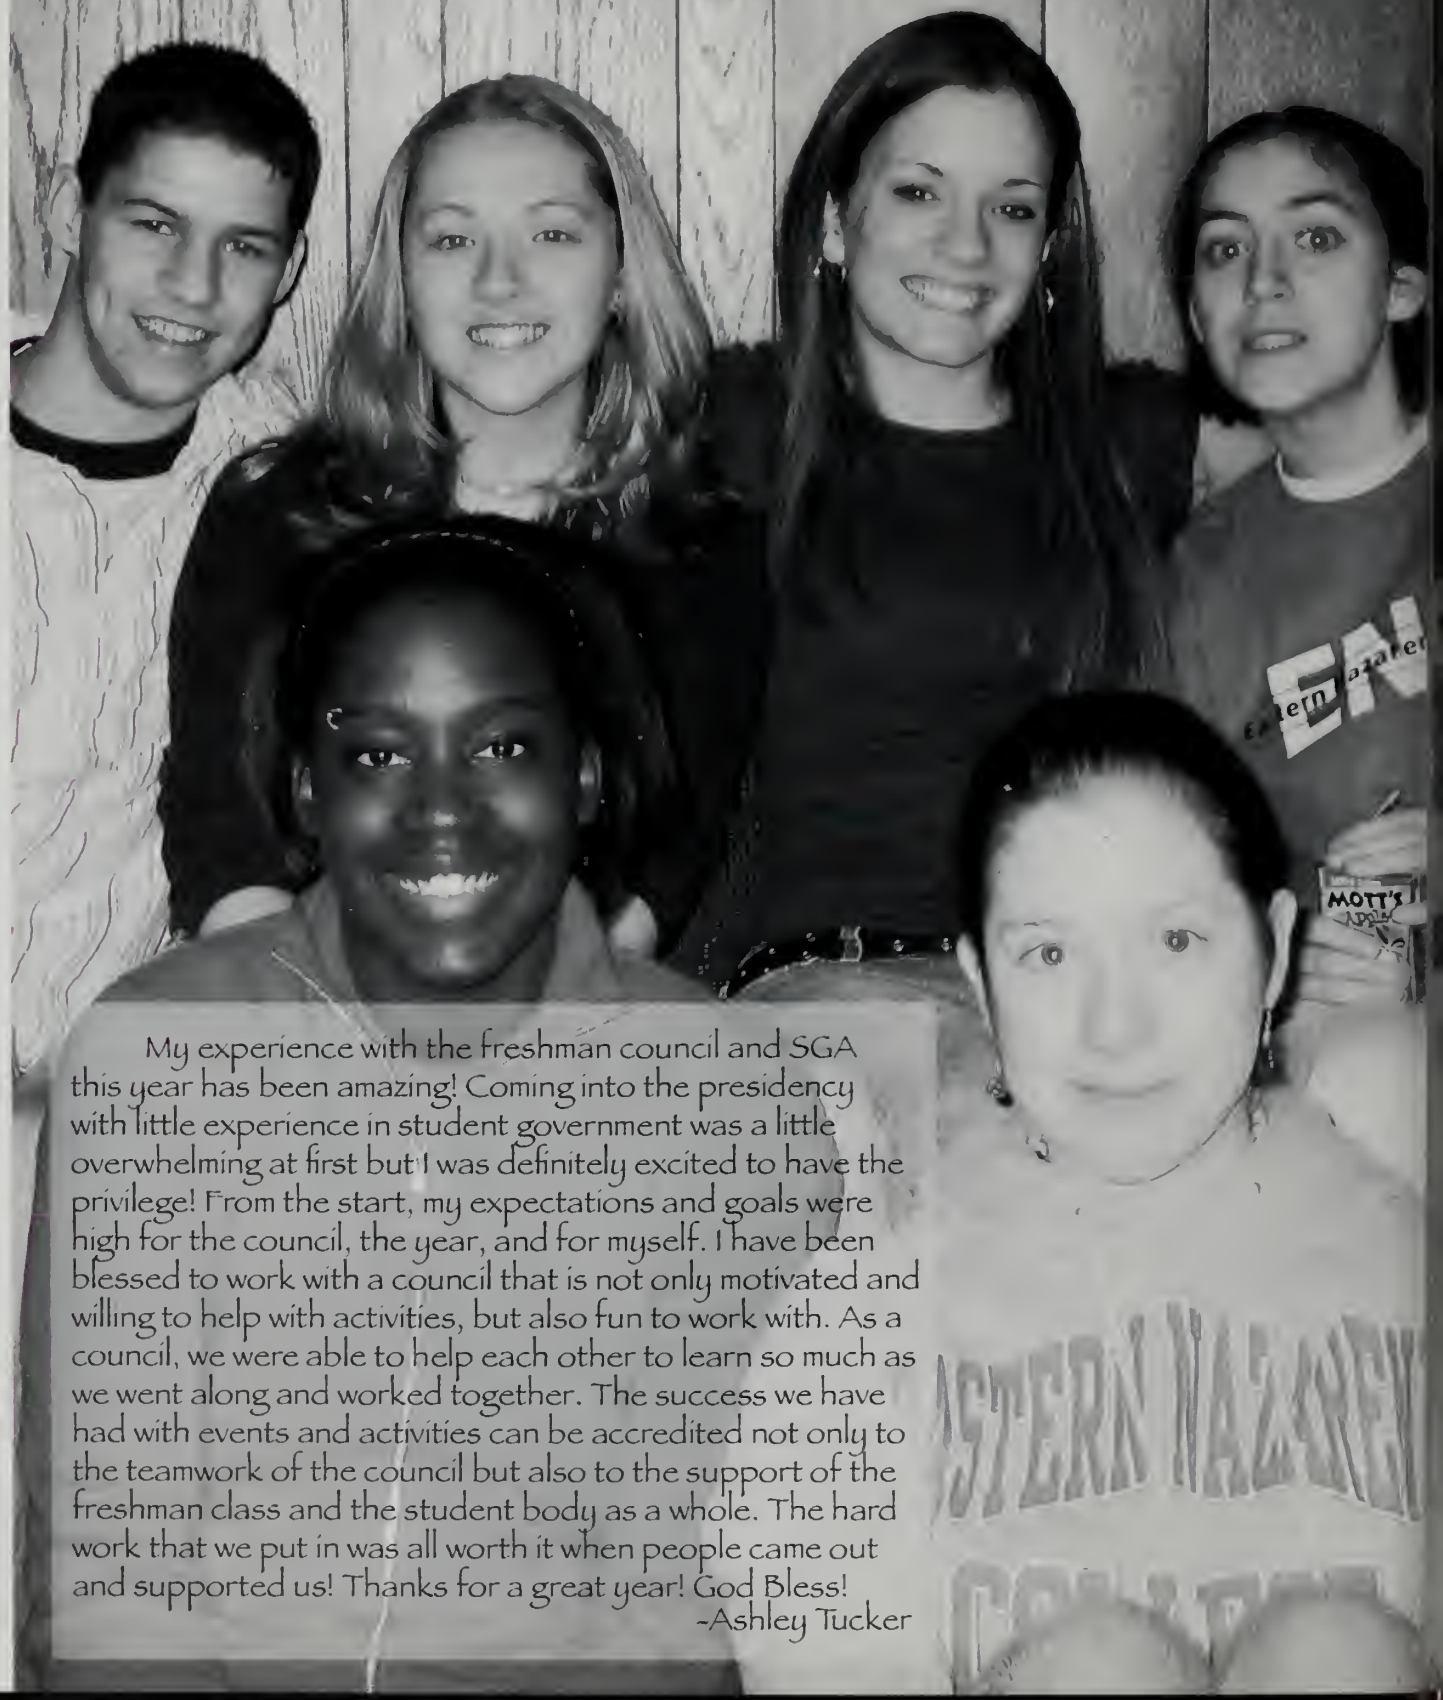
The Freshmen

CLASS OF 2008



My experience with the freshman council and SGA this year has been amazing! Coming into the presidency with little experience in student government was a little overwhelming at first but I was definitely excited to have the privilege! From the start, my expectations and goals were high for the council, the year, and for myself. I have been blessed to work with a council that is not only motivated and willing to help with activities, but also fun to work with. As a council, we were able to help each other to learn so much as we went along and worked together. The success we have had with events and activities can be accredited not only to the teamwork of the council but also to the support of the freshman class and the student body as a whole. The hard work that we put in was all worth it when people came out and supported us! Thanks for a great year! God Bless!

The Focused Performance

SPORTS

The Eastern Nazarene College Crusaders have a competitive NCAA Division III athletics program which the performance of each player shines in their daily performance during practices, games, and meets. These ten teams come together each season to play their hardest through a much focused effort. Each player contributes to the whole team to go above and beyond.

The outcome of the game displays the spirit of the team as well as the fans. The Crusaders have always worked hard to give ENC the type of sports team they can be proud of. This in turn is seen through the focused performance of each player.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

1: Sophomore Bethany Bar and Freshman Niki Fatchaline charge towards the ball to steal it from #24. 2: The team sits in anticipation watching their teammates. 3: Senior Lori Langille uses all her strength to throw the ball in to play. 4: The team waits anxiosuly on the sideline for the game to begin!

If I were to take one word and sum up the Women's soccer team, I would say the team has a whole lot of heart. As I once saw in a slide show "We did not win, but we sure made losing look good." With the lady Crusaders team under leadership of new Coach Andrea Fisher, this season was one of uncertainty. However, that quickly changed after we grew to know each other and our new coach. With ten returning players and five new ones, including representation from South Africa and the Bahamas, we were all looking forward to the season. As the season progressed and we suffered loss after loss, the lady Crusaders seemed to hold their heads high. One, because we were all playing for Jesus and two, coach A., as the team called her, taught us to have fun. If you have fun with soccer, you play better. This proved to be evident in our last game against Fitchburg state. Sadly to say it was seniors, Jocelyn Darcy, Elaine Midolo, and Lori Langille's last game ever, so the team was told to have fun and play hard for the seniors. The Crusaders delivered, in our best game of the season. We ended tying Fitchburg after two over times. Even though we did not come out with a victory the team came together as one to achieve their goal and in the process we had FUN. The year was a success due to hard work and some fun every now and then. Be sure to look out for the team next year. In the words of Sean Connery, "You will roo the day you crossed the ENC Women's soccer team.

-Lori Langille

ENC'S RISING STARS

Elaine Midolo

Playing soccer the past three years for ENC has been unforgettable. Although we've had many tough games, I've been blessed to be able to build friendships with a wonderful group of girls. It was a privilege to be elected captain for the past two years, and I thank God and all my teammates for that opportunity.

Niki Fatchaline

For as long as I can remember. I have always wanted to play soccer in college. This year has been a great learning experience for all of us. I love my teammates because they are all awesome soccer players as well as remarkable friends. I look forward to the upcoming growing years of our soccer program, and it's awe-inspiring rollercoaster ride.

Success is defined as the achievement of something desired, planned, or attempted. By that definition our season was a success. The season's highlight came during homecoming when we were able to tie the game at three goals apiece with 46 seconds left in regulation. We then played on for the next 20 minutes, to acquire our only tie of the year. Throughout most of the season we played with 11 or 12 players, as injuries kept at least 4 other players on the bench. Granted we didn't win any games, but each game we played we desired to play our best, planned a winning strategy, and attempted to give God glory through soccer. This year has laid a good foundation for future teams to build on. After losing to Salve Regina University (SRU) 0-6 and playing practically the whole game a man down, SRU's head coach Keith Cory commented to our coach Tom Newell in an email: "I thought that your team played with a tremendous amount of courage and class. I'm sure that you are quite proud to be associated with such a valiant group of young men. Your team's tenacity on defense and in goal frustrated my players to no end. My team was impressed with your players as athletes and individuals." Even though our record was poor, ENC's Men's Soccer team of 2004 will be remembered for our pride in each other and in ourselves and for our efforts towards "not going quietly" through the season.

-Kris Putnam

ENC'S RISING STARS

Trevor Smith

In my sixteen years of playing organized soc I have never learned as much about the spor I have in 2004. Thomas Newell is the founda of a new soccer program here at ENC. Let's h he stays awhile.

Jesse Mix

Back in my glory days, between the ages of 5 and 11, I struck fear in the hearts of my opponents. My masterful skill on the field could be attributed to the hours I spent kicking a ball around the house and getting in trouble for it with my mom. I've always loved the game; that's why I play.

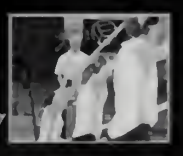
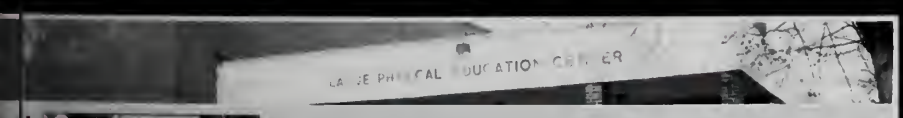
This year's volleyball team came with high expectations after last year's unexpected winning season. The entire team from the previous year would be returning and some fresh new faces would be added to the stacked roster. However, the season didn't start off quite as expected with the Palm Beach Atlantic tournament in Florida being cancelled due to a hurricane. " It was what we worked all summer and pre-season for," said senior Heather Steppe. What should have been a rewarding weekend turned out to be a tri-match held here at ENC hosting rivals Colby-Sawyer and Eastern Connecticut. As the season progressed the team continued to work hard and push to beat last years record. Pushing through the season, the Crusader girls found themselves in almost the same spot as last year; the semi-finals against one of our biggest rivals. Despite the loss in the semi-finals to Colby-Sawyer, the support of the fans was priceless. I don't know if a single team from ENC has ever had the dedicated support of fans like this years volleyball team did. T-shirts, signs, posters, and the loudest cheering in any gym we entered helped push the girls through ruts and hard times the entire season. These boys rarely missed a game if any. I could sit and tell of all the accomplishments each girl made throughout the year but if you went to the games you saw their talent. What you might not have seen was the love and support that followed them from home games to the farthest away games. In the end, it's not the number of kills or digs we had that mattered or that we'll even remember. It's that same crowd of fans that went out of their way to show how much we mattered to them. For that reason alone, this was the best season I had playing volleyball in my four years at college and I would not have chosen a different group of girls or fans to end my career with.

-Heather Steppe





Caitlin Callahan

It was an awesome experience being on the Women's Volleyball team. I had a lot of fun, I learned a lot, and I made some really good friends. I am excited to see how next year will go.

Rachel Galbraith

Finally beating Gordon my senior year, to laughing so hard I peed myself at practice...some of my best memories of college are from being a part of the ENC volleyball team. As a captain, it was a privilege to play on a Christian team with players that were so outgoing, enthusiastic, and dedicated. I'm really going to miss the coaches and all the players next year. Good luck and thanks for a great season.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

1: Molly Trevathon swings her racket to send the ball flying over the net. 2: Natalie Mlyniec pulls her racket back, ready to wack the tennnis ball past her opponent. 3: Lindsey Pelletier prepares to return the ball with a force from her whole body. 4: Allison Nowland, deep in concentration, bounces the ball before her first serve of the game.

The tennis season this year was awesome! Statistically,we placed about the same as last year. Our number one player last year was a tough loss. However, we picked up a new number one freshman, Natalie Mlyniec, who was a strong addition to the team.

In my opinion the greatest thing to happen this season was the immediate bonding between teammates. The team really seemed better connected, even with the addition of three freshman, who made up one third of our team. With the added support and encouragement of all the teammates, we came off the courts feeling like we did the best job we could, win or lose.

The highlight match of our season was played on the grass courts of the National Tennis Hall of Fame in the Salve Regina Grass Court Doubles Tournament. Each of us got a chance to play a couple matches on the grass courts and in between matches, hit around for a bit on the clay court and visited the museum. It was a very unique and exciting experience for all of us and we all hope to be invited back to the tournament next year.

-Lindsey Pelletier

Tennis is one of the best parts of the school year fo and now its over. Where does the time go? I was r blessed to have the chance to play with this great t and to play under an awesome coach. It was a g feeling to make it to the Quarterfinals. Good luc you girls next year, hope you take it all the way.

Natalie Mlyniec

My first year of playing tennis at the college level has been both fun and challenging. My best moments were not when I won, but when I knew I was playing against someone better and played my hardest to win some points. I love both the individual and team aspect of tennis; it's a great sport and lot of fun.

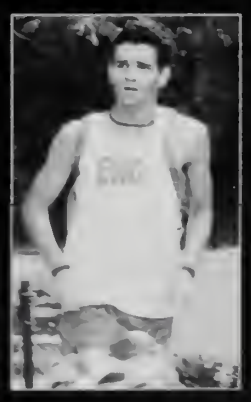
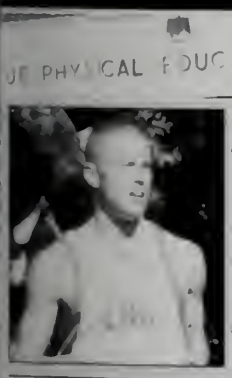
This year marked a turning point for both the Men's and Women's Cross Country teams. Led by Coach Ed Gardner, numbers increased, initiatives were driven, and times dropped.

The men's team took a sixth place preseason ranking to heart, pushing themselves to their best mark in years, finishing fourth place in the conference. With a win at the annual homecoming race, this team was also able to solidify what could be considered a successful season. Veterans Matt Coder, Chad Bantjes, Matt Berrian, Jeff Hamilton, and Phil Harris, helped lead the way, and newcomer Jay Wilson filled out a potent top six who have the desire to win.

The women's team attracted a large number of runners for this season, their highest in years. While they made strides to advance in the conference, the injury bug took its toll, leaving them with only four healthy runners by the conference meet, and not being able to field a full team. But led by the Fish sisters (Theresa and Amanda), this team was able to turn heads and begin to show the signs of a successful program.

With none of the men's team graduating, and the women only losing one to graduation, the Cross Country program now has a young nucleus to build upon for years to come. Given a drive to succeed, these teams will only continue to rise up the conference ranks.



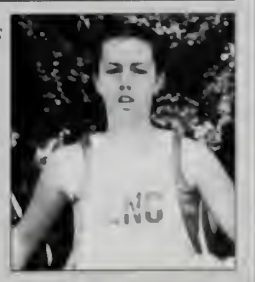


Jay Wilson

There's no other sport like Cross Country, running from the very pain that you yourself create. However, there is no greater feeling than being able to race, being able to leave behind the world that everyone else knows yours to be, and to worry only about the next few steps you're going to have to take to win, like a life for Christ."

Jen Cousins

"Although it's not as fun as synchronized ballet dancing, Cross Country is more fun than you would think. You get to wake up early on Saturday mornings, run in the middle of hurricanes, and scrub mud off your sneakers. It's fun-really. Why else would I do it?



MEN'S BASKETBALL

1: Freshman J.P. Morgan makes a free throw in perfect form. 2: Christian Corey, Mark Abiem, Ryan Calhoun, and Garrett Sapienza watch their team intensely, waiting to see if they will come out on top. 3: Senior and captain Edson Cardoso breathes deeply as he waits for the ball to be put into play. 4: The ENC Crusaders join together to pump each other up for another exciting game.

"To me, being perfect is not about that scoreboard out there, it's not about winning. It's about you and your relationship with yourself, your family, and your friends. Being perfect is about being able to look your friends in the eye and know that you did not let them down because you told them the truth, and the truth is that you did everything that you could, there was not one more thing that you could have done. Can you live in that moment? As best you can with clear eyes and love in your heart - with joy in your heart. If you can do that gentlemen than you're perfect" -Friday Night Lights.

We worked hard everyday and never regretted anything. There were blood, sweat and tears, and moments that will never be forgotten. The Crusaders will always remember to play with the theme R.U.S.H. (Respect, Unselfishness, Sportsmanship, Hardwork) and compete like warriors. The young group of guys returning are an exciting group to look for next year and other years to come. Remember, to some basketball is just a game, but to others it's life.

To my family... Promise to never give up.

Coming into this season, we had plans of paying attention to detail and making it to the playoffs. We kept those plans in mind throughout the season as we achieved a playoff spot. The season had its twists and turns along the way. Any outsider could watch us young ladies as we interacted with each other not just as teammates, but as friends and as sisters. After all, a team should be a family, and that family aspect was more important than winning every game.

Throughout the season, each one of us filled our individual roles as we became a stronger team. Though we did not win all the games, we learned how to give our best effort and continuously get better. Knowing that we played our hearts out each night on the court gave us a sense of achievement. With a couple players injured throughout the last leg of the season, each team member had to step it up with even more intensity to fill the missing shoes. As a team we came together, regardless of who was playing on the court.

We are a developing team with great potential that is shown season by season. This year we lose two great seniors, Allison Braunius and Kathleen Hester. They surely will be missed, and they are greatly appreciated. As our team continues to grow and compete with new and old faces, we hope that next year will be even better.

-Amy Seltzer

Bonnie Hirtle

As a freshman, Bonnie has brought with her not only a fresh face, but a team spirit that has been contagious. Her presence has been much appreciated by the rookie and veteran players alike, as the coaches on the bench look forward to what she will produce next year.

Allison Braunius

The pregame speeches (LETS GO…), the many hours spent in the training room, countless hours spent running sprints. These are just some of the things that I will surely miss after leaving ENC. Throughout these four years, I learned to not take things for granted, whether it was on or off the court. We might not have won any championships, but my teammates and I poured our hearts out. We were a family with a stronger bond then probably any other team in the conference. We knew what it was like to be at the bottom, and what it felt like to climb our way back to the top. We never stopped. We never quit. This alone was a victory in itself. Thanks for the memories ladies.

WOMEN'S SOFTBALL

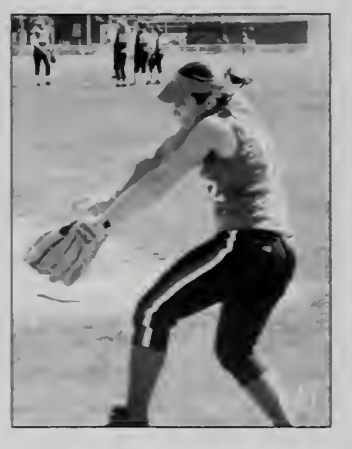
1: Melainia Genovese, steps up to the plate to slam the ball across the field. 2: Jen Wescott stretches her legs to prepare for her performance in the upcoming game. 3: Captain and Senior Allison Braunius whips her arm around for a perfect strike. 4: Senior and Captain Jocelyn Darcy waits for the ball to come to her. 5: The ENC Softball team enjoys each others company while sitting on the bench together.



The 2005 ENC Women's Softball-season was full of surprises and unforgettable moments. Our spring training down to Fort Myers, Florida resulted in some memorable victories and a time to create great team experiences. With a very young team, of which most are returning, this squad will be even stronger next year. The entire team is excited to see what the following years will bring for the ENC's Women's Softball Team. The heart and dedication that each girl on the team share will allow them to overcome any obstacle placed before them. As captain's this year, we witnessed an amazing team. We'll miss you ladies.

The last four years on the ENC softball team have amazing and something that I would not trade for world. These girls are my family, my sisters, and m best friends. Ladies, I will never forget you, each o you will always hold a place in my heart. Good lu next year and in the years to come. Love and miss Coach Wolf, thank you for giving me the encoura ment and opportunity to play college softball.

Faith Belyea

My first yeare playing softball has been a great experience. I love the game and have had a lot of fun playing at the college level! We had a disappointing season in terms of wins and losses but I will never forget our 7th inning, 7-run rally to win the game against St. Joe's. We are a young team and I am looking forward to a great season next year.

MEN'S BASEBALL

1: Sopohomore Brad Mountain fiercely pitches the ball across home plate. 2: The Dugout stands in anticipation to see if the Crusaders will get another win. 3: Junior and Captain Graham Crain walks off the field after his team just got its last out. 4: The ENC Crusaders meet Matt Watson to congratulate him on a run home.

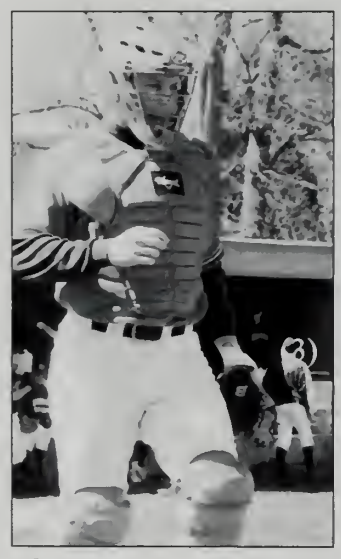
The ENC baseball team began the season in Florida in the Eastern Mennonite Classic, where several Christian schools were able to compete against each other. The baseball team created many memories and built an ever closer team relationship during spring break together. Beginning in the games in Florida and continuing at home, the ENC Crusaders began the season with a ten game winning streak.



The talent on the baseball team was extraordinary this season. The pitching crowd on the team included such players as Brad Mountain and John Morgan. New talent also entered the game with several freshman additions; Anthony Swede playing on second as one of them. The baseball team, combing skill with community, was inevitably going to have a great season.

The 2005 Crusaders baseball team witnessed an amazing year. For the first time in nine years, the team competed in the Commonwealth Coast Conference, making it all the way to the finals.

The ENC Tennis team added some fresh legs to step onto the courts this year. After losing five key performers because of graduation, Coach Popa had a lot of work to do. As the season opened up the team traveled down to sunny South Carolina to gain some experience before going home and facing conference teams. This gave a chance for doubles players to get comfortable with their playing styles.

The season broke into full swing as Freshman Billy Stephens beat the #1 Nichols player to achieve CCC honors for that week. The young team faced a lot of hard battles and held tough to get some key wins. With only one returner from last year there would be guys that needed to step up. The one year veteran Sophomore Phil LaFountain said "The team had a lot of funny guys and he really enjoyed the experience and looks forward to next year." With a young team comes big challenges and this group of guys never hesitated to step on the court and face that challenge.

The tennis team really stayed positive under the leadership of Coach Popa. His hard work and continuing desire to help the team get better kept the teams head up. Coach Popa said "Taking in consideration that the team was so young, I felt that with a year under the teams belt and with key returners such as Billy Stephens, Phil LaFountain, and Matt Kauffman next season we can look towards playoffs."

Matt Kauffman

"I had so much fun this tennis season, especially when we went down to Hilton Head. Even though the record doesn't necessarily show it, the improvement our team made was remarkable. I can't wait to find out what we will be able to accomplish next year."

The Core Vision

CLUBS & ORGANIZATIONS

The clubs and organizations of this community have a core vision. Each group meets in order to reach out to others, to inspire others, or to praise the Lord. These groups provide a way for many different students to come together as a whole to share their similar interests. They represent the core of their mission to spread their vision to the ENC community.

Each year we are proud to introduce new clubs and organizations to this section. This year we have a couple new groups, including the Christian College Democrats and Republicans. Both clubs are committed to bringing about political awareness to the ENC community.

Student Government Association

The General SGA is made up of representatives from Class Councils, Publications, OSL, ARB, and the Executive SGA. These groups have worked endlessly to put on class events, and service projects, and produce publications like the newspaper and yearbook. The General SGA has dedicated hours upon hours of work for their classes, and have led them well! It is my prayer that God will use the talents and abilities shown in each position to further His Kingdom! I can't thank you enough for your willingness to serve ENC so well! You're the best! This year the Accomtability Review Board has been going throngh some major changes. And some hard work has been put into these changes. At times, it could be quite trying and mixed with school and other responsibilites. I wasn't sure how everything would pan out in the end at this time I am feeling confident, and hopeful for some good things to come from the the ARB position in the years to come. I can truly say its been both challenging and fun.

The commuters committee's objective is to create an agreeable environment for the students who live off campus. We organize activities such as coffee hours, dinner, party... anything that can help the commuters to know each other better and feel more involved at ENC.

Campus Camera: D.J. Glisson II, Sara Homan, Bethany Edwards, Matt Berian, Jonah Ford, Ashley Lawson, Rashi DeMel, Kevin Uzinski, Nesha Oaks, and Alina Degrace

The 2004-05 Campus Camera was a time of change and progressive thought within its pages. The year saw the addition of a dedicated Spiritual Life section to the mix, but the addition that really grabbed students attention was its emergence as a legitimate forum for intelligent student opinion and constructive (and sometimes not) criticism of the campus and surrounding community. This unintentional but welcome emphasis gave rise to the popularity of the Letters to the Editor section, regular student editorials, and the columns Home Sweet Hohman and Matt's Sports Corner.

Attempting to remain relevant and taking its service to the community seriously, the newspaper pushed the envelope. It did so by attempting to tackle subjects that normally aren't spoken about in a public ENC setting but doing it with a element of class and intelligence that would kee the community entertained, enlightened, ar ultimately unoffended.

The success of the paper was due entire to the collaborative effort of its staff. "A lot people look to me and give me complements o the CamCam this year," said Editor-In-Chi DJ Glisson, "But the truth is that I only wrang together the efforts of our incredible staff. Ea and every one of them is the reason for anythi good that people got out of what they read. T whole thing would've fallen apart without t dedication, effort, and talents of each and eve member."

This year the yearbook staff was in the second year of creating a new and revised yearbook. We have had a more experienced staff to create more impressive graphics, better pictures, and more efficient methods of preparing the overall look of the yearbook. It has been a good year and we have had a great time creating lifetime memories for our seniors.

To the Readers:

I joined the Nautilus Staff as a freshman and halfway through the year I met Martha Jackson, the new editor. I was angry at first becuase I wanted the job, but after a few months I knew they made the right choice by hiring her. This is the third and final book Martha and I will be working on together. She has now graduated and left a void in the position of editor that will be hard to fill. She has shown dedication under the most undesirable circumstances. Any other person in her shoes would have walked out on the book twenty times, but not Martha. Her patience with the staff, expecially myself is a true Chrisitan example. I won't be working on the next book but honestly; I wouldn't want to without Martha working on it with me. I'll miss her as a boss but also a friend. Thanks for everything Miss. Jackson.

This year the Student Association of Social Workers has done a great deal of work. We worked at Germantown Neighborhood Center to organize food boxes for the holidays as well as put together a present drive for over 300 families in the Germantown Neighborhood. We have also participated in the Homecoming street fair. However, one of the more influential outreaches we did included the ENC student body. We reached out to the ENC community and brought awareness about social work to them. We publicized the social work profession throughout the month of March.

The ENC chapter of Psi Chi National Honor Society is dedicated to encouraging, stimulating, and maintaining excellence in scholarship, and advancing the science of psychology. At the homecoming festival, we sold candy apples, cider, and other goods in order to raise money for the chapter. We also had our annual Christmas party and winter induction ceremony in December to welcome new members and spend time with our dedicated psychology faculty.

This year, Beta Phi Mu was all about making life as a science major easier and more fun. We had pizza parties and a movie night, just so we could hang out, relax, and take a break from studying. At the beginning of the year, Shrader was a mess! But thanks to some dedicated people and hard work, we spent all of J-term cleaning, making it a better place to be. This included finding undissected frogs from 1997 and throwing out an incubator that still housed plants from this year's senior's freshmen year! We had our annual betta fish sale as well and made enough money to have our end of the year banquet at Fire and Ice in Boston, including Senior Roasts and time away from the stress of classes.

The Christian College Democrats is a club that was formed for the purpose of representing a Christian Democratic viewpoint to the student body. We are slowly accomplishing this goal through a series of lectures and general meetings used to create an open minded environment about different political viewpoints. One-by-one, we are educating the students of ENC that you can in fact be both a Christian and a Democrat.

OASIS is the meeting for the leaders in the SMO (Student Ministry Organization). Once a month, on a Saturday morning these leaders gathered together to share with each other what their ministries have been up to and how they are doing in them. It was a time of great encouragement and support for one another, and we spent time in prayer for those who would be impacted as well as those who participate in these student-led ministries and for each other.

Prayer Warriors: Leaders: Julie White, Isaac Woodward. Members: Meghan Murray, Erin Crosby, Tenny Doane

Prayer Warriors is a ministry that recognizes the power and importance of prayer as well as Christian fellowship. We pray for the requests that students write on chapel cards and for each other. God has worked in us and through us as we have lifted up ENC in our prayers.

We write encouraging notes and send little gifts to the staff and faculty on campus and at Old Colony. We work in the IRC of the Library and make many creative cards every Wednesday night. We have a blast and it is a great time of fellowship.

Barnabas: Ministry Leader: Jen Smith, Andrea Steigleder, Jessica Travers, Megan Thayer, Kristel Pendleton, and Shavonne Brumford

Verse of the Week is an on campus ministry that reaches out to our community of believers through a different verse each week. We provide encouragement through God's word to those all around us and for each individual we see. Each time we meet we are faced with the new challenge of choosing a verse that will reach each individual who reads it. As we are faithful in gathering and digging into God's word, He too is faithful with a new verse from week to week. Praise God for all He does!

Community Outreach Ministries

STAND : Ministry co-leaders: Colin Chapman and Liz Kemmerer. Members: Amanda Fish, Katrina Gauthier, Nike Lammering, Allison Peters, Liz Barnard, Lena Thomas, Corrie Curttis. Genevieve Rivera, Christie Everett, Katie Petrin and somtimes Dutch. (There are so many that have given their time and efforts to stand durring the last years and we thank them all.)

This was only STAND third full year as a ministry, but that didn't stop it from having a very productive year. The ministry started fundraising in the fall with a table at the street fair and finished the first semester with a special World AIDS Day Chapel. During the second semester the group really pushed it with AIDS Awareness week holding their annual consignment shop, a t-shirt awareness campaign and finally ended the week with a large benefit concert. Hopefully this was just the start of created a sense of action and open mindedness within the student body of ENC.

Psalms 150 that reads "Praise the Lord. Praise God in his sanctuary; praise him in his mighty heaves. Praise him for his acts of power; praise him for his surpassing greatness. Praise him with the sounding of the trumpet, praise him with the harp and lyre, praise him with tambourine and dancing, praise him with the strings and flute, praise him with the clash of cymbals, praise him with resounding cymbals. Let everything that has breath praise the Lord." There are three different branches of 150: Lyrical, Hip-Hop and Step. The groups are all student lead with choreographers, a secretary, treasurer, co-leaders and co-chaplains. The group ministered at various churches throughout the school year. They also took part in the schools first "i an' i" concert and participated in an off-the-hook concert with the Gospel choir. It is 150's hope to reach people who would not normally hear the gospel as well as to minister to those already saved. 150's main purpose though, is to glorify God through the gift of dance

This past year in JUMP has been one of personal and team growth. Through various circumstances, our two teams SALT and ACTS came together with a passion for ministry and unity in purpose I have seldom seen. Two highlights of our year were our trip to Bethel Church of the Nazarene's "Teen Extreme" and a weekend trip to Syracuse for a zone 30-hour famine. By the grace of God, we found a balance of servanthood and devotion, and were able to grow together spiritually and effectively minister through the medium of drama.

JUMP Drama Ministries: John Youngman, Ryan Ardrey, Bobo Spasov, Ryan Magnuson, Tim Troxler, Keri Mills, Lori Soares. Danielle Stodden, Lilian Arteaga, Julie Manley, and Erin LaFex.

Kids Club: Co-Leaders: Ana Pimental and Kristen ones. Members: Matt Gavel, Becky Hurey, Kristen ones, Ana Pimental, Isaac Woodward, Meghan Murray, Lissa Tovar, and Amy Dollinger.

Kid's Club is a student led ministry ministering to the children of Hull. It focuses on bringing children from broken homes into a loving, caring environment centered around Christ.

The ENC Gospel Cl experienced new changes
year since for the first tim was school funded as oppose being student led. One of th changes included Dr. Del becoming the new director.

Gospel Choir has always b about "free-style praise" lived up to that philosophy al
with tackling more challeng songs than ever before. W the help of Dr. Case and

Gospel Choir: Director: Dr. Delvyn Case. Amber Dumond: Secretary, Stacy Myers: Treasurer, Kelly Moser: Chaplain, Angela Noon: Publicist, Elizabeth Machado: Publicist, Regina Peterson: Web Design, Fallon Ramos: Web Design

The A Cappella Choir and Chamber Singers seek to praise and serve God through music. This year we were blessed with tours to Cape Cod, New York, New Hampshire, and Maine. Several of us were especially fortunate to be able to participate in the Chambers Singers January tour to Fiji and Hawaii. God used each of our performances to minister to His people and bring us closer to Him, and there is nothing better than being a blessing and being blessed at the same time.

The Social Life Council

Campus Camera: Mike Hammer, Jocelyn "Jocie" Ferland, Ryan Magnuson, Jeff Hamilton, Autumn Deschaine, Jen Cousins, Ryan Ardrey, Shavonne Brumfield

The Social Life Committee has the big responsibility of providing a variety of events to appeal to the diverse interests of the students. We started the year off with "The Price Is Right", and had several concerts, several movies, and began (hopefully to be a tradition) the Harvest Party. This year has been such a great experience, including being the first male to ever run Mother/Daughter Weekend. I feel this year has been a good one, and hopefully it provides a great foundation for years to come. Thank you so much ENC.

The Individual Expression

College life allows for a plethora of personalities to display their own talents and behaviors. The individual expression that the student body encompasses is one that reaches a diverse range. Whether it is through style, behavior, culture, faith, or friendships, this community is able to express themselves in many distinctive ways. This year, student life events catered to a wide range of individuals who expressed itself in a variety of ways. The game shows were a hit among those who wanted to embarrass themselves, while intramural sports were for those who wanted to show off their athletic abilities. Concerts and open mic nights were opportunities for students or guests of ENC to express themselves through their musical abilities.

1: Emily Hart gives the showcase wheel a spin. 2: "Who will be the next contestant on 'The Price is Right!" 3: Jennifer Yerdon gets ready to answer one of Mr. Barker's questions. 4: Emily and Abby Barker couldn't have been cuter. 5: Is that Professor Carla Lovett?

I finally got to say the words I've always longed to say as a Barker! "Come on down, you're the next contestant on the Price Is Right!" This event was tremendous. Mike Hammer did an excellent job organizing and coordinating the event from Barker's Beauties to the Showcase Showdown. Only one thing was missing, none of the winning contestants gave "Bob" the customary kiss!

-Prof. Jeff Barker

1: P.U.R.E. gives ENC yet another performance. 2: The bassist lays down a funky jam. 3: The crowd welcomes the band.

When director Misti Wills announced the 2004 Fall Musical was to be The Music Man, students, faculty members, (McLaren, Fish, Hall, Lovett and Wooster) and children from the community came in droves to participate in this lovably hokey American play. The Music Man captured the heart and essence of community and the power of music to unite a town formerly consumed by rumors and routine. 'Professor'Harold Hill (senior music performance major Douglas Gerber) conned River City into believing that they needed a kids' band. With this, the town had something to be proud of and its stubborn citizens began to change into a lively and spirited community. But Hill was checked by the skeptical and reserved town librarian Marian Paroo (junior Communication Arts major Jennie Warren), until the pair fell in love and were brought to life themselves.

Flag Football

Flag Football, the biggest intramural event on campus, was once again a big hit with students. A season that was almost cancelled because of too much snow ended in glorious fashion with two fantastic Super Bowls. The Powder-Puff Super Bowl did not fail to impress or surprise anyone. Team Death, led by MVP Jen Smith and Quarterback of the Year Rachael Walker, won in stunning fashion over previously undefeated Ja-Booty in overtime, 21-14. In the guys Super Bowl, the game was much closer than the score indicated. Undefeated Team MPC, led by Quarterback of the Year Jon Showe, won 84-56 in a hard-nosed Championship game. With new additions, such as painted lines and higher participation among students, ENC's intramural football proved once again to be the elite intramural event.

Boston Red Sox Champs

After the dramatic ending of the 2003 season when A.F. Boone had his day of glory it seemed like the entire off-season the Red Sox was the absolute talk of the town. With the A-Rod trade talks and us signing Curt Schilling, it's hard to believe that while the New England Patriots were on their way to winning their second Super Bowl, they were on the back burner to the Sox. The 2004 season was one where we saw in the first half of the season the Sox being quite mediocre ,but after a momentous trade involving Nomar the Sox took off. Big Papi and Manny were hitting home runs out of the ballpark, Schilling and Pedro were winning game after game, and of course Johnny Damon's hair flowed while chasing down fly balls in the outfield with effortless ease. Winning the Wild Card, the Sox cruised through the Anahiem Angels like they were nothing. Now was their time for redemption-the Sox faced the Yankees in the ALCS. After being down three games to one the Red Sox made the most dramatic comeback in sports history defeating the hated Yankees in seven games. The Red Sox were on a roll after that comeback-no team could stop them. Sadly, the St. Louis Cardinals were the whipping boy of fate nothing was going to stop the Red Sox in 2004. Now all of Red Sox Nation can close their eyes and see Keith Foulke toss the ball to Doug Mienkiewicz, and those demons of 86 years are released. The Red Sox are now World Champions.

SGA Elections Finding Out

SGA Elections Ice Cream Social

The six guys on this council have been working together for almost a year. It's exciting to think that we can carry over the chemistry along with Mindy's experience. I look forward to seeing what the seven of us can produce next year.

"If music be the food of love, play on!" I can't help but wonder if Shakespeare knew how famous and universal this line would become when he wrote it. He speaks of love to his own generation but the analogy can apply to individuals even in today's society. At this stage in my own life, this quote reads more like, "If music be the food of the stage, play on! Give me excess of it, that surfeiting, the appetite may sicken and so die." Shakespeare wrote these words in Twelfth Night to express Duke Orsino's unrequited love for Lady Olivia. When I think of the quote as my own, it reminds me that rather than eliminate my hunger for the stage, my last show at Eastern Nazarene College, Twelfth Night, only fed my craving. No matter how many or how varying the shows I've participated in, such as Guys and Dolls, The Skin of Our Teeth, The Diary of Anne Frank, and The Music Man, the craving can't be satiated. As a senior I can't think of a better way to finish my theatre career here at Eastern Nazarene College than being a part of Twelfth Night. The individual actors and actresses obtained what many theatre companies can only dream of attaining; we became a family. The opportunity to see these actors and actresses work together on any upcoming shows is one not to be missed.

Being in a yes mood was the only reason this non-athletic girl was suddenly on a dodge ball team when approached in a last minute recruitment attempt. As the teams gathered in the gym there was air of excitement and fun, and of course the underlying idea of whaling balls at girls heads. Yikes. The first teams to play lasted about 2 minutes ,placing my team to the floor, with no real game plan. Though the game was short, iftleft my team thinking of new plans and styles. The night continued with dodge ball strategy, analyzing as well as cheering for the underdogs. This seriously fun sport was a success, which had the teams wishing it had come sooner in the year. Definitely an answer to those "boring" ENC nights.

1. Sarah Homan, Megan Parks, and Tyler Knowlton look on for the new challenge. 2. William Winn wants you! 3. Rachel Galbraith and Sara Smail race for the balloon pop. 4. Connie Slocum gets down in the Jell-O. 5. Jeff Hamilton gets a bowl of jelly. 6. Tim White ties off a balloon while host Nate Grannell helps the boys out.

Battle of the Sexes

Rachel Galbraith and Nate Grannell hosted this years Battle of the Sexes, looking to see what sex would take the title. The Battle of the Sexes events ranged from physical challenges, such as balloon popping, searching for chocolate coins in Jell-O without using your hands, and chugging down what seemed like gallons of Arizona Iced Tea, to mental challenges like pop-culture trivia, general knowledge trivia, and Name that Tune. The guys had the lead, only to be shut out by the ladies. So this year, the ladies hold onto the title.

Sounds of Unheard Voices

The Broms Organ Trio played a number of shows this year including ENC's first annual ARTS festival. Although the events were not too well attended, those who did go were able to witness a few nights of top notch music.

Tri-Sport Tournament

Ultimate Frisbee

Although the weather was not great, many daring people went out to the field to play ultimate Frisbee. The competition was tough, but those who had been practicing all year long in snow and rain on the Wally Church green, came out on top.

1) Matt Kauffman lines up the shot. 2) Jirawat Anektanasap plays ping-pong like it's breathing. 3) Ryan Ardrey looks for the corner pocket. 4) Christian Bonilla and fellow café worker play well as a team. 5) Johnathan Freburger and Josh Cobrin bring their soccer skills to the table. 6) Ryan Magnuson has this tournament in the bag.

During the week leading up to finals, the underground was transformed into a mini game hall for the first annual tri-tournament. Teams of two would go at it in the three selected events: pool, foosball, and ping-pong. The team of Ryans, Ardrey and Magnuson, came out on top to prove that the more time you spend in the underground the better man you are.

1) Phil Harris takes the nice grab. 2) It's a bird, it's a plane, its Super Magnuson. 3) Wes Rankin looks for an open man. 4) Larry Simpson's youthfulness is too much for Bob Couchenhour's late block. 5) Ron Kling gets back to his flag football days of defense.

This year ,the rain brought spring fever inside. However there were a great deal of events and activities. The climbing wall, gladiator joust, obstacle course, and the bungee race were all part of the spring fever activities. There was also an endless supply of Wendy's cheeseburgers for sale, as well as extravagant door prizes to be won. Spring Fever was a definite hit among the students this year.

SCIENCE & THEOLOGY NEWS science & spirit

The Old Colony Journalism Center, funded by the John Templeton Foundation and directed by Dr. Karl Giberson, produces Science & Theology News, a monthly newspaper, and Science & Spirit, a bimonthly glossy magazine, with the help of 15 full-time professional staff and over 20 ENC student interns. The students write articles, conduct research, compile web site material, take pictures, assist with marketing, and do countless other tasks that keep the journalism center running. The interns also write content for the ENC website, send out press releases, produce the annual ENC viewbook, help with honors weekend and more.

Editor's Page

Martha Jackson

As editor for my third year, putting together a yearbook was much less stressful than I had anticipated. I had a trained and experienced staff to work with which created a much more enjoyable atmosphere. My staff has been so great and I want to thank them each individually. Matt: thank you for getting us out of debt as best as you could. Although it wasn't our fault, you did a great job recompensating for it all. Colin: thanks for getting it all put together in the end. It has been an unforgetable journey with you over the past three years. I will never forget it. Especially when I told you to, "take it off and rub." Thank you for being so patient with me. Krista: you did a fabulous job as photo editor. Thank you for taking responsibility of your position. Justine: thank you for making my job easier. You did a great job learning the computer program. Thank you for always getting your deadlines in on time. Martha Haynes: first, thanks for being a great friend. I couldn't have gotten through this year without your support. Second, great job on the social life section. You really pulled it together well. Dan: thank you so much for dealing with all the crappy work I gave you. You did a wonderful job. Melinda: thanks for taking on the most frustrating section in the book. Photographers: thanks for taking lots and lots of great pictures. Kris, this yearbook wouldn't look so great without your help.

I have learned a great deal throughout the past three years as editor. The most important thing is not to make your job your life. For the first year and a half I would always be thinking about yearbook. Was the deadline going to be completed? Did we have enough ads. And most importantly, did I know what I was doing? Well, although I did teach myself everything I needed to know about this job, I had to learn to let go once in a while. I couldn't control every aspect of this job and I had to leave some of it up to others. Although there were several times when I was thrown a curve ball, I was able to learn from these experiences. I know that I will be able to take the skills I learned from this job and apply them to my future jobs.

Lastly, I would like to thank my family for supporting me all the way through this difficult year. There were so many times when I would call home crying because of all the administration injustices concerning the yearbook. I was incredibly frustrated, but my parents always calmed me down. I also would like to thank Julie for being there for me, even though she was 700 miles away. And last, but not least, I want to thank Brian for everything. Brian, you have been such a blessing in my life. I thank God for you.

In closing, I'm glad I took this position of editor for the past three years. I have learned a great deal and even managed to make some friends along the way.

Martha Patience Jackson,
Editor-in-Chief
